Mellon Knows How Foolish Demand, Wise Man Thirteen Month Calendar

—By Arthur Brisbane—(Copyright 1929)

ON Monday, in the prosperous U. S. there was a "turnover" of one billion eight hundred million dollars in tax payments and treasury financing alone. Not a ripple on the surface of the financial water.

Interest rates didn't go up. "Call money," the kind used for Wall Street speculation, remained, at 4 1/2 per cent, although not unorganized lenders, "on the outside," offering to lend at a half cent.

Secretary Mellon knows how to handle money. To him a billion dollars is only a billion dollars, because he has a billion or so of his own.

Brownlee Says Not More Than One New Minister Planned

Scotches Rumors of Startling Additions—Replies to Criticisms as to Retention of Parks by Dominion

Should the province have taken over the control and administration of the National parks as a part of the agreement by which the natural resources are to be returned to the province the scheme would be entirely inconsistent with the parks policy of the dominion, declared Premier J. E. Brownlee on Thursday in reply to criticisms to the effect that the province should have acquired the parks as part of the resources.

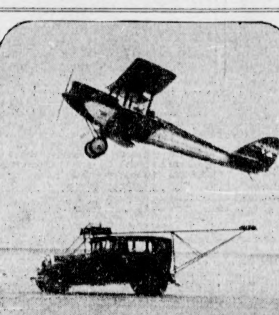

The premier back at his office at the legislative buildings after a two weeks' trip to Ottawa was buying himself with provincial affairs that have piled up in the last two weeks.

Wall Of Ice Threatens To Wipe Out Town

Canadian Press

QUEBEC, Dec. 18.—Extra high tides in the St. Lawrence river might pile up thirty feet deep on the streets of Montreuil-sur-Mer, a small town on the north shore of the river, and threaten to wipe out the town. The water was so high that it was feared that it would sweep away the houses and the town would be wiped out.

Managers of business on a small scale will be interested to learn that General Young, president of Sears, Roebuck and Co., with 40-60 employees, adopts the calendar year of thirteen months for business purposes in place of the old year.

The thirteen month year, twenty-eight days in every month, one day over each year, every day of every week falling on the same day of the month year after year, facilitates and simplifies business, and makes it easier to make comparisons. The thirteen month arrangement ought to be adopted all over the world. But it is hard to change old customs.

Journalist Tells Of Accident That Might Be Serious

King of the Woods Too Wary for New York Writer—Gets Away After Being Nearly Trapped

EDMONTON NOTE—The "Modern Camera" is taking his final hunt after moose. In this article he describes his chase after a four-year-old bull and an accident which might have been serious except for McConnell's experience with woodcraft. But his moose was too wary for the camera-hunter. He got away unphotographed.

ON THE BEAR TRAIL LAKE (Quebec) INDIAN TRAIL—A cold, but withal friendly, moon looked down upon me as I descended, an hour at a time, at the base of the up-rooted birch and rose at the end of each nap to pile more wood on the fire. In the twelve-mile hike that day I had seen two partridges and the tracks of three rabbits; aside from those there were no indications of game in the "valley of the lakes" which I traversed.

But, I reasoned, there was no reason why moose should be in the valley; their source of food was frozen in the ice. And, with an abundance of snow on the hillsides, they no longer needed to drink from the lakes. Besides, there were popular groves at intervals: one lay just above me, to the northwest, perhaps 500 feet above the lake. And moose thrive on poplar bark.

SNOW AGAIN
As day breaks
The snow had stopped falling at sunset, but now, at daybreak, it began again, drifting slowly into my sheltered nook. Littering by the fire, it would melt into the half of my moonlit churning pot on the trail. I could brush it off occasionally, but there was no other alternative but to set out.

While I had not been surprised to see boulders where the ice-sheet had poured out the valley a few million years ago, the stupendous size of some of the rocks on the hillsides was amazing. One of these craggy chunks was at least 100 feet long, eight feet wide, and projected at least eight feet above the soil. And underneath, strange to say, there was a cave in which I could spend the night in comfort should the snow continue.

In order to make sure that no bear had selected it for his winter quarters, I crept around inside with a lantern, food, and a gun.

Perchance 300 feet higher I came upon the poplar grove, and soon sighted my first moose-tracks. With snow falling from an overcast sky, it required close scrutiny to prove that they actually were moose-tracks; they were perfectly indistinguishable in the snow, yet have half an inch below the level surface of the center. But they were regular, and led in a winding course up the hill. Then, like a flash, came the thought that the moose might have been lured down-hill. Strutting aside the six-inch ledge of snow which drops one of the dangerous, I finally came to a foot-print two inches deep in the frozen moss, the course lay uphill.

A little farther on I caught my first glimpse of poplar trees on which a moose had browsed. Apparently he had "run the tree," stripping a few square inches of bark from one tree after another from two to six inches in diameter, and going on to the next tree, some twenty yards away, and then for a foot or so at any point between tree and tree, and so on, until he had reached the top of the hill. This indicated to me that this particular moose was a bull, about four years old. It only bewould prove to be as stupid as the first one I had encountered, and which came to within fifty feet of where I crevassed, waiting to get his photograph.

The tracks and the signs on the trees were fresh—not more than one day old. So I hastened onward, hoping the moose would be skittish rather than travel in the snow-forest. On the trail and beside my snowshoe clothing, with the hair inside, had just fallen short of keeping me warm in below-zero temperature.

Perchance I had a proportionate amount of ink in my diet, moose-hide clothing would serve in this behalf, but my food—rabbit, squirrel, partridge and fish—like everything else—made me feel like a bear. I had had great difficulty in keeping warm since King Winter began his reign. But now as the possibility of overtaking this young bull became apparent, I redoubled my efforts, and soon was in a first perplexation. This resulted in my slanting booming fog, and really caused me to lose touch. But it is said that there was an opportunity which seldom comes to the man who hunts with the camera or the cross-bow. So I moved the glasses up on my forehead and poked through the snow, now six or seven inches deep. What does a little thing like the automatic matter, when a photograph of a moose is a matter in prospect? I asked myself. But I soon found that it does matter in stepping over a small log, presumably to add ground on the other side my foot sank between that log and another that lay parallel to it, and before I realized what had happened, I was up to my neck in nothing! Right there I decided to make haste slowly; for that one misstep might have resulted in a broken leg—and death by freezing. Such an accident is one that fishermen anticipated when they arranged to fish in the ice, and so they should not return in time to dispel my weekly articles in the mailboxes.

However, by sinking "all in a heap," and getting out of the snow, I was saved, and I arose, extricated myself, and set off again on the trail of the moose. It had stopped snowing by this time, and I followed the directions for perhaps half a mile after my fall before I came to my first hopeful sign—the moose's bed, a round hole in the snow, perhaps four feet in diameter, where the heat from the animal's body had melted the snow right down to the moss. It was now about ten in the morning and the young bull, of course, have left at any moment after daybreak. But the fact that snow had been falling up to within half an hour, retarded him; there was no snow in the trail, or his bed. Moreover, following up the tracks for a few feet, I came upon unmistakable indications that he had departed rather hastily, with his head five minutes, probably at my approach!

Whereas the young bull's trail had, for the first fifty feet, been clearly and rather meandering, with the footprints the normal walking distance apart, now even such an unperceived trail as myself could read alarm in every movement. Ordinarily the trail veered from the natural and easy course indicated by the terrain to a low-line northwest; the length of his stride increased from three feet to six—seven to nine feet! He was then, of course, in full flight, and it is altogether likely that he ran for five miles before stopping for breath. For with a moose in search, he is never as alert as the proverbial Jack rabbit.

I did not hear him crashing through the undergrowth, although in all likelihood it was a hundred yards of him when he became alarmed. But a four-year-old bull has comparatively little sense that he does not break off limbs and saplings as the fifty-inch girth of an eight-year-old male would. Besides, the deep snow would render his foot-falls.

So it seems that my moose-score is steadily growing longer. My camera shot at fifty feet, the film of which, apparently, was left astray somewhere between the Quebec woods and New York city; next a fairly good picture at forty yards of a wounded bull, and now, nothing!—even the glimpse of the "wood-eater!"

TEACHER SUES FOR HIS WAGES

Claims $1,255 From School District for Closing School

Action for the recovery of $1255 damages was commenced in the supreme court on Wednesday before Mr. Justice Fry, by Thomas Richards, who named as defendant the Atholites School District No. 339.

The claim was the unlawful prevention of plaintiff's carrying out of an agreement.

Plaintiff alleged that defendant district agreed to employ him as a teacher after Dec. 1, 1927, for a salary of $1800. He taught until June 1, 1928 and was then prevented from continuing such teaching by reason of defendant's failure to pay him.

The agreement provided that either party might terminate the pact on 30 days' notice providing that no such termination should be made without the consent of the board of trustees, which he had to get two full days' notice in writing and to bear the board's reasons for terminating the agreement.

No such notice was given him and as the agreement was for one year, he claimed the amount specified in the claim was due him.

George H. Van Allen is acting for plaintiff and P. G. Thomson, N.C., for the school district.

The case is continuing.

EDMONTON MAUSOLEUM

"Fast Falls the Eventide"

Take a few moments from the busy affairs of the day and consider this line from a grand old hymn. It suggests, with a solemnity which none but the most flippant can ignore, an hour when the darkness of night replaces the sunshine of day, and when the one pressing problem which admits of no delay is the selection of a last resting place for all that remains of our mortality. No time then, in the grief-stricken household, to choose a satisfactory burial place with that calm deliberation befitting the importance of the event. No time then to weigh the advantages of mausoleum entombment against the practice of earth burial. The time to choose is now, while in health and before need. If mausoleum entombment be your choice, you will be glad to have full particulars of Edmonton Mausoleum.

City Commissioners Take Immediate Steps to Relieve Unemployment

UNEMPLOYED MEN MARCH ON STATION

Wait in Ominous Silence For Arrival of Premier

Carrying a red flag and singing such songs as "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum," "Hail, Hail The Gang's All Here," a small army of unemployed men, numbering between 100 and 500, staged a demonstration in the city Wednesday night.

Apart from shouting and singing, the army was quite orderly as it paraded city streets and hauled passing motorists, charging them with being the oppressive proletariat.

The men marched through the city and then proceeded to the C. P. R. depot, where Premier A. E. Brownlee was scheduled to arrive. Outside the depot the army waited in ominous silence. When the train arrived, the men were promptly ordered by the leader, "A little later the army dispersed, with leaders stating the demonstration was just to show that the men were in earnest in their demands for relief."

RELIEF PLAN ADOPTED BY CITY CHIEFS

Married Unemployed Men Given Immediate Work

An emergency relief scheme for unemployed married residents of the city was approved by the city commissioners at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon. Only bona fide married residents who form the neediest cases will benefit by the scheme which was drafted by City Engineer A. W. Jandow.

The applicants for work under the emergency relief plan will first be carefully investigated and reported on by Thomas Magee, city relief officer. Magee will then be authorized to issue relief tickets to the needy married men who are in need of work.

need of immediate relief more so than families were ready to use of food and other necessities.

Commissioner David Mitchell said Thursday morning "It will be surprising that this emergency relief plan is for the benefit of unemployed married men who live in the city and are in need of work."

The city is not in a position to consider other relief plans. No single men will be employed under this plan and married men will be carefully investigated by Relief Officer Magee before being placed at work. It may be understood that this work is only being undertaken as an emergency measure.

Norwood Bruins Defeat Enarcos by 5-1 in Junior Hockey League Fixture

BETTER FINISH AROUND NETS GIVES COULSON'S TEAM WIN

Winners Show More Polished Offensive System and Have Edge on Play But are Given Hard Battle By Yellow and Black Aggregation

SHOWING remarkable form throughout the entire sixty minutes of play, Frank Coulson's Norwood Bruins fought their way to a sparkling 5-1 triumph over the Enarcos in a Junior Hockey League fixture played at the Arenas last night.

While the score would seem to indicate an easy victory for the Norwood crew, such was not the case, as the Enarcos were right in the battle all the way, and the fans who were in attendance witnessed an exhibition of the ice pastime that contained plenty of thrills and action, together with a lot of exceptionally good hockey.

WORKED SMOOTHLY
Although the Bruins were in the thick of things at all times and at no time showed signs of letting up, the more successful team, the Enarcos, were given a hard battle by the Norwood crew, who, in the end, won by a score of 5-1.

The second half of the game was a close one, with the Enarcos leading 2-1 at the end of the first period. However, the Norwood crew, who had been given a hard battle, were able to turn the tables in the second half, and won by a score of 5-1.

University Intermediate Hockey Team Loses to Civics by Score of 5 to 2

CIVICS STARTING SCHEDULE RIGHT WITH TWO VICTORIES

Winners Score Three Goals in Final Period to Make edict Certain, Bernie Brown Getting Two of Them—Varsity's Second Defeat

THE Civics registered their second straight victory of the current Intermediate Hockey schedule at the Arena last night when they triumphed over the University of Alberta squad by a score of 5 to 2. While the Civics were hanging up their second win in as many starts this season, they sentarsity down to its second defeat in three games played to date.

Although the winners enjoyed a good edge on the play throughout and deserved the three-goal margin which they had at the finish, the students battled all the way and kept the game interesting at all times.

BERNIE BROWN SCORES TWO GOALS

Each team counted once in the opening frame, Jeff Brown tallying for the Civics and Stuart for Varsity to make the score one-all at the end of the first period.

The winners scored a one-goal lead in the middle stanza when Bill Bell, slunged defense man, beat the Varsity goalie for the only marker of the period.

Three goals in the last period, with three more holding the hours to a one-goal margin, ruled out the University for the Civics. Bernie Brown went on in succession for them, while Bell touched their last, and Varsity's score in this frame.

This practice, one each to, with Kinney and Brown, were the only ones to be featured in the game.

Doubleheader In Ind. League Arena Tonight

A pair of Independent Hockey League games are scheduled at the Arena tonight, with the first due to get underway at eight o'clock sharp.

The second game will see the Alberta team with the Northern Alberta Hockey team in the opening frame. The game will be officiated by Canadian National referee and will supply the entertainment in the second half of the evening.

PATS AND PANS

by BILL LEWIS

Was out to the Junior Hockey League game at the Arena last night when the Northern Braves were knocking the known 3-1 defeat of the University of Alberta.

That the boys are showing, with their scores fairly two-to-one, all of the players have come along in surprising fashion and the improvement in the class of hockey in this short space of time is astonishing.

The winning Junior team in this time has been somewhere in the Canadian playoffs, or it may be that the Northern Braves are the time next spring rounds around followed by the University of Alberta.

looking at real hockey. And the reason is obvious. In the past the boys have had to struggle along with no one to show them what the game was all about and, as a consequence, they have been absolutely no real team-work developed. This year however, three of the team have coaches of outstanding ability and it is probable that the team will be well secured for the fourth out.

General Barney Stanley is at the helm of the Police, Lloyd McIntire is taking the Youth Middle Athletics Association entry, and Fred Campbell is coaching the Northern Braves. All three of these men are good hockey and the players and teams at a whole are bound to be the result of their work with them.

Emerson are said to be after Chris Thompson to coach them, and Chris was a member of the Winnipeg Amateur title at the 1928 Olympic Games, and should the Emmons be successful in securing him, they would be well up in the race all winter.

One player whom Edmonton fans very seldom stand up and claim their own is Harry Murdoch, outstanding forward of the New York Rangers, a brilliant young performer who always seems to get his share of goals for the Rangers club in the National Hockey League.

While not a producer of amateur hockey in this city, having acquired him purchasing skill in Winnipeg and jumped from the Junior ranks there to a berth with the Rangers, Murdoch spends the major part of the off-season here with relatives and is a regular patron of the senior amateur ball games at Boyle Street Park. He was married a couple of years ago to a sister of Howard and Jack, both of whom are well known in local hockey circles.

Some changes in the Senior Amateur Hockey League standings are certain to result when George Crutts' Elks battle the Varsity Grads in a scheduled game at Varsity rink tomorrow night.

At present those two teams are in a triple tie with the Imperials for second place but sole possession of that berth will be decided in Friday evening's contest at the University ice palace. Had they not taken that leaving from the Superiors on Tuesday, Bill Broadhead's student team might have been placed as favorites to win tomorrow but, as things stand now, they will probably as an even bet when they take out to oppose the Antlers here in this fixture. Some fans who have been expecting great things from the Calgarians have not yet recovered from the shock of the 8-2 set back their favorites received at the hands of the "Slops" but look for them to make good their promise when they meet the Elks for the second time this season, tomorrow.

TODAY'S HUNCHES

The other three contenders will have to show plenty of form to lose out the Superiors in the Senior Amateur Hockey League race this year. Edmonton's Junior Hockey League does not receive the support from the fans that the class of hockey played tonight.

The more or less talkative Mr. Arthur, the Gracie Shires should confine himself to first-hand for the Chicago White Sox instead of taking shots on the chin in the prize ring. But then the mighty one has the money angle to consider.

The local soccer committee's meetings will show strange this coming year without the familiar faces of Bill Quinn and Bob Stevenson to be seen at the head of the gatherings.

Varsity Meet ELKS FRIDAY

Second Meeting of Sextets Promises Close Game Winner in Second

Undisputed possession of second place in the Senior Amateur Hockey League standings will be at stake at Varsity Rink tomorrow night when the Elks coach Bill Broadhead's University of Alberta Grads in a scheduled league fixture. Play is limited to start at 8 p.m. clock sharp.

With these two teams present, 10 with Bill Power's Imperials for second place, a routine battle for the right to assume sole possession of the converted berth is expected. Friday's game will be the second meeting of the season for the two teams and it promises to be keenly contested if the confidence shown by the players in the opening game of the season the Antlers have shown by George Crutts, gained out with a 2-2 victory over the student pack-chasers and they are firmly of the belief that they can again turn back the best efforts of the Broadhead brigade. Whether they can or not, the Varsity squad do not agree with this opinion and are going out for their home for determined to have at least two victories to their credit before they leave on their holidays.

While no line-ups have been announced as yet, it is likely that the teams will take the ice as follows:

Elks: Goal, McNab; defence, Brian Potts, Redmond, Edwards, Gary Potts, MacMillan, Robertson; Brown.

Varsity: Goal, Ross; defence, Hall, Hill, Edwards, Lomick, McDonald, Grevand; Cooper, Knight, Montgomery; referee, Clarence Campbell.
